Seven steps for PhD admission at Erasmus University Rotterdam (General guidelines for all PhD applicants)

1. Do you have the right credentials to enter a PhD in your own country?

The standard for admissions is:

A four year Bachelor degree + a two/three year Master degree; which will lead to a full 4 year PhD research in the Netherlands.

Scenario 1a: A combined Bachelor/Master degree being a 6 years program

Scenario 1b: A joined study of Bachelor and Doctoral Degree including a 4-year Bachelor degree plus a combined Master/PhD program of which at least 2 years have been completed; you need to provide us with an official statement of your university that you have finished the master part of the combined program;

Scenario 1c: Student after having obtained a bachelor degree and is expected to finish the Master program within one year, may start a PhD application and ask for a preliminary admittance; a full 4 years in the Netherlands.

2. There must be relevancy in subject/major between Bachelor & Master programs to be considered for the PhD in the Netherlands. This can also be highlighted in a strong motivational letter explaining the reasoning.

3. The English requirement for the PhD candidates is an academic proficiency, to be proven by either IELTS or TOEFL score.

IELTS: An academic average score of 7.0 is compulsory, minimal 6.0 for all sub-scores: Listening, Speaking, Reading and Writing TOEFL: Score of 100 is compulsory, minimal 20 for the sub-scores Listening, Speaking, Reading and Writing.

4. Compulsory documents for Bachelor Diploma:

Graduation Certificate + Degree Certificate + List of Marks + Notary document*

(* Notary document is a legalization of Chinese documents including translations in English)

5. Compulsory documents for Master Diploma:

Graduation Certificate + Degree Certificate + List of Marks + Notary document* + CDGDC certificate

(* Notary document is a legalization of Chinese documents including translations in English)

6. Application involves a preliminary evaluation by the EUR

Selection procedure done by Erasmus University China Center (Beijing Office).

7. Interview with promoter/staff will be followed by their decision

If positive, upon arrival the PhD student registers in Hora Est (PhD database) and delivers his/her formal application package (Request for Admission + documents) to Admissions Office.
